

With the outbreak of peace which ended World War 1 a mission from the Australian Flying Corps visited some Royal Air Force establishments in England to select, where possible, and to accept gift stores which were to help Australia to form a peace time Air Force.